

New Central Plains Regional Minister

We are thrilled to announce that Brad Seifert has been voted in as the new regional minister for the Central Plains Region, taking over the role for Dan Heringer, who is currently serving in the capacity of interim Executive Director for the NAB before he plans to retire next July. A well-known pastor in the Central Plains Region, Brad is a welcome addition to the role of regional minister.

Brad spent his early life helping his father and grandfather on their farm in central Kansas (Marion) and learned much during these formative years. He attended Bethany College in Lindsborg, Kansas, where he earned a degree in business and economics and met his wife, Tami. They were married after Tami's graduation in June of 1984, with Brad's graduation following a year later.

They moved to Sioux Falls, South Dakota, in 1989 after Brad felt God calling him into the ministry. He enrolled at North American Baptist Seminary, graduating in 1992. Brad and Tami then moved to Stafford, Kansas, where they began their ministry at Calvary Baptist Church. Brad was ordained in 1992 at Calvary Baptist with the Southwest Association, the same year their son, Zach, was born.

In 1998, the Seifert family moved to Junction City, Kansas, where Brad has served as the lead pastor of Highland Baptist Church ever since. Brad and Tami have enjoyed being part of the Junction City community. Brad's been active in coaching youth sports, including coaching the junior football program since 2001. He also enjoys serving as a chaplain for the local police department, is active in the local ministerial association, and has various other community involvements. Tami teaches in the local school district and coaches volleyball.

In addition to ministry at Highland and in his community, over the last twenty-eight years Brad has served in various roles in the Southwestern Association of the NAB. He has also served for several years on the Regional Leadership Team of the Central Plains Region and was previously appointed as a representative of the Southwestern Association to the General Council of the NAB.

We are confident Brad will eminently serve the pastors and churches within the Central Plains Region for years to come.
